

PICT

STORIES FROM THE SHADOWS

The Picts or Picti meaning 'painted people' were by the fourth century AD the predominant people of northern Scotland.

The ancient fort at Burghead is the largest to have been discovered anywhere and so is likely to have been the main power centre.

*A painted people
Language unknown
Mysteries and mirrors
Picters in stone*

Share your story

#MyMorayStory

MORAYSGREATPLACES.COM

DID YOU KNOW....

■ The Picts left behind no written records. The language they spoke has been lost and their way of life remains shrouded in mystery.

■ Pictish stones were large monoliths carved with emblems and symbols, which were discovered throughout Moray, and still remain an enigma to this day.

1. Brodie Castle
2. Culbin Forest Hill 99
3. Sueno's Stone
4. Major Pictish Fort

5. Sculptors Cave Covesea
6. Elgin Cathedral
7. Elgin Museum
8. Birnie Kirk

9. Scottish Dolphin Centre
10. Knockando Kirk
11. Inveravon Church
12. Mortlach Church